

Economics Research Assistant

Work: I am looking for a student to assist me with the researching and translating from English to Russian of presentations with economics and econometrics content. The presentations cover impact evaluation and causal inference techniques widely used in empirical economics research.

Qualifications: All students for whom Russian is a native or near native language are welcome to apply (undergraduate, graduate or professional). Economics, econometrics and writing background preferred.

Hours and duration: This is a one time commitment with approximately 20 hours of work. Hours are extremely flexible.

How to Apply: Send a resume and a contact person for reference to Plamen Nikolov, pnikolov@fas.harvard.edu.
