

Education Lab Seeks Undergraduate RAs for Immediate Openings

Description: The Education Innovation Laboratory (EdLabs) is seeking undergraduate students to assist with research and experiments. Typical responsibilities include data entry, literature search/review, and other responsibilities as they arise. Candidates should be able to work a minimum of 10 hours/week. Pay is $12.00/hour.

Qualifications:

- Economics or mathematics background
- Proficiency in Microsoft Excel and Word
- Proficiency in STATA preferable
- Demonstrated attention to detail

Application Instructions: Send resume and brief description of why you would like to work for EdLabs to jobs@edlabs.harvard.edu.

About EdLabs: EdLabs was established in 2008 to apply rigorous, scientific methods to developing, testing, and evaluating innovations in primary and secondary education. Led by economist Roland Fryer, EdLabs is singularly focused on unearthing root causes of performance gaps, developing ways to vet reform options, and designing repeatable solutions. EdLabs currently conducts research in several urban school districts including New York, Chicago, and Washington DC. For more information, visit our web site, edlabs.harvard.edu.